NEW FIRE CHIEF OR NEW HEAD?

RUMOR RUNS ALL THE WAY FROM BOTH TO NEITHER.

William Cullen Bryant Says That Nobody Has Asked Him to Be Fire Commis sioner-Chief Croker's Counsel Thinks That Sturgis Has Been Called Off.

Chief Croker will be dismissed from the Fire Department within forty-eight hours, and, following his dismissal, Commissioner Sturgis will resign. Chief Croker will not be dismissed.

That was as near as the reporters could get at it yesterday. No guarantee goes with either statement.

A friend of a man who is a friend of a man who is an intimate friend of the Fire Commissioner made the following statement to a SUN reporter at the Hoffman

House yesterday afternoon: "I've just had a talk with a man who spent an hour with Commissioner Sturgis this morning and this is the situation in the Fire Department to date: Sturgis believes that the evidence taken at Croker's trial shows the Chief to have ben guilty of a majority of the charges on which he was tried. Sturgis is just bullhead enough to follow his convictions in spite of the devil. He has told the Mayor the conclusion he has reached and that he intends to dismiss Croker. On the other hand, the Mayor has told Sturgis that the hand, the Mayor has told Sturgis that the Corporation Counsel says the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals will never sustain Croker's dismissal on any such evidence and, therefore, the Mayor don't want Croker dismissed. When Sturgis heard that he told the Mayor that he (Sturgis) was going to dismiss Croker anyway and that if the Mayor didn't like it he could get a new Commissioner. Thereupon Mr. Sturgis was informed that he could resign as soon as he dismissed Croker and that's the situation at this time."

The man who made this statement is an old-time Tammany politician, a member

The man who made this statement is an old-time Tammany politician, a member of Tammany Hall and years ago an intimate friend of Richard Croker.

Opposed to this is the statement of John J. Delany, counsel for Chief Croker, made about an hour later. He said:

"Things have happened within forty-eight hours which lead me to believe that Croker will not be dismissed. Sturgis is a very stubborn man, but I am led to believe that he has been told certain things. lieve that he has been told certain things within the list two days, which have changed his notions on certain subjects and

I say now that I don't think Croker will be "We have recently learned that there was at least one other man of high rank in the uniformed force of the department who was slated to go soon after Croker. This man's name has been taken off Sturgis's black list, however. We have also learned that another Deputy Chief of the department told a friend of his as early as least Extension that Cooker was clear to department told a friend of his as early as last February that Croker was slated to go. No charges were preferred, however, until months after that. I shall produce to-morrow the affidavit to prove this."

If, as a result of the Croker muddle, the Mayor has decided to have a new Fire Commissioner, Editor William Cullers Bryant, formerly Fire Commissioner of Brooklyn, has no official knowledge that he's to be the man.

"I read this morning," said Mr. Bryant yesterday, "that the Mayor was thinking of appointing me to Mr. Sturgis's place. If the Mayor has such thoughts, he hasn't communicated them to me. I haven't heard a nord from him on the subject and I haven't communicated them to me. I haven't heard a word from him on the subject and I haven't talked about the matter with anybody.

"I cannot discuss something that I don't know anything about, but I don't mind saying this: I think Edward F. Croker, on his record, is the best Fire Chief New York ever had."

AFTER CARELESS DRIVERS.

Albert R. Shattuck Causes the Arrest of

One Who Left His Team Unhitched. Albert R. Shattuck, president of the Automobile Club of America, was riding up Jerone avenue Saturday afternoon when he saw a brewery team standing unguarded and not made fast to a hitching post. Mr. Shattuck told a policeman to arrest Edward Stigman, the driver. "There are many such instances of this," said Mr. Shattuck, "and whenever a runaway occurs the automobile gets the blame."

Stigman was arraigned in the Morrisania police court and discharged because he said the team was being guarded by his helper. Mr. Shattuck did not appear.

RAID IN BIG APARTMENT HOUSE

MAGISTRATE POOL CONDUCTS ONE WOMAN'S DEFENCE.

Another Tenant Complained That the Flat Was Used for Immoral Purpose -Pool Produces Counsel and Witness for One of the Prisoners.

Magistrate Pool, sitting in the West Side police court yesterday, disposed of a case with the prisoner's counsel sitting with him on the bench. The Magistrate examined the prisoner himself, sustained most of the objections to the District Attorney's questions and finally discharged

The case grew out of a raid in the St George, a large apartment house at 230 West Fiftieth street. Charles A. Skidmore, a former Deputy Assistant District Attorney, lives on the seventh floor.

Mr. Skidmore recently became suspicious of the tenants in a second floor apartment occupied by Mrs. Alice Schmidt. Mr. Skidmore says that he saw women and drunken men going into the apartment at all hours of the night. He employed private detectives to make an investigation and on the strength of their report went to Capt. Schmittberger of the West Forty-seventh street station.

Capt. Schmittberger sent Policeman William J. Mullane of Inspector Kane's staff to Mrs. Schmidt's apartment shortly after midnight yesterday morning. Mul lane stayed there for an hour, when he was joined by two young women. After Mullane got the evidence he wanted, he opened the doors and admitted Detectives Walsh and Berbenich of the West Fortyseventh street station, who were waiting outside. They made five prisoners: Mrs Schmidt, the two young women and another man and woman. At the station house the young women described themselves as Alice Murray, a stenographer, living in the apartment house, and Jennie Morris, a saleswoman, of 48 West 113th street. She admitted later that she did not live there. The man and women said that they were James Wilson and Mabel Wilson of 348 Fulton street, Brooklyn. Later the woman said hat that wasn't her name. Deputy Assistant District Attorney Robert S. Johnstone, who used to live in the St. George, was in the West Side police court to prosecute the prisoners when they were arraigned. The Schmidt woman was charged with keeping a house of prostiution in a tenement house. Her counsel ived in New Jersey, so she got Lawyer Benjamin Greenthal to have her case adourned until next Tuesday. Bail was fixed at $500.

Then the Murray woman was arraigned.
Lawyer Greenthal said that he would appear for her, too.

for her, too.

"No, you won't," shouted Magistrate
Pool. "This gentleman will defend her."

The Magistrate turned to a middle-aged man sitting beside him on the bench and the stranger bowed.

Policeman Mullane was the principal witness against the prisoner. Magistrate Pool allowed the lawyer at his side to ask two questions and then took up the crossexamination himself. Then he examined the girls, putting all of his questions in the negative.

the girls, putting all of his questions in the negative

"You did not know that it was a bad house, did you?" demanded the Magistrate. "You never did anything wrong, did you? You are a good girl, aren't you? You work hard as a stenographer for a living, don't you?"

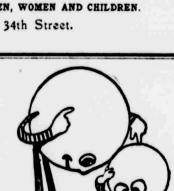

The girl said that she had lived with Mrs. Schmidt for four months. She formerly lived at 72 West Eighty-eighth street. She worked in Brooklyn as a stenographer. In fact, she was a good girl. Then Mr. Johnstone tried to cross-examine, but very fow of the questions were allowed by the Magistrate. The girl's counsel had nothing to say until Mr. Johnstone had finished with his case. Then, standing beside the Magistrate, he was sworn as a witness for the defence. He said that he was Nathaniel Niles, a lawyer, with offices at 140 Nassau street and testified that he had known the girl for four months, that he knew that she worked hard in Brooklyn and that she was a good girl.

Metaloric content of the property of the knew had known all and that she was a good girl.

Mr. Johnstone asked how he knew all

"She told me so," answered Mr Niles.
Lawyer Niles couldn't tell where he first met her, but he thought that it was in a social way. Magistrate Pool objected to the cross-examination, so Mr. Johnstone

FOR THE HICKEY MURDER. Joe McCabe, Wanted in Rochester, Gives Himself Up in Utica.

Utica, Nov. 23.-Joe McCabe, wanted in Rochester for complicity in the murder of George Hickey in that city last August, surrendered himself to the police in this city last night, because, as he said, his conscience troubled him. Subsequently McCabe described the murder of Hickey, but charged the crime to one "Toronto

George Hickey of Rochester was murdered on the night of Aug. 19 last, and a party of four tramps was suspected of the crime. One of the quartet was arrested, but the other three escaped, and despite the efforts of the Rochester police. which, by the way, extended over the entire country, no trace was secured of the trio until McCabe gave himself up in this city last night. He disclaims any complicity in the murder, saying he was asleep when "Toronto Sim" slashed Hickey to death, but gives a very graphic description of events directly preceding and following the crime. After the murder McCabe says he travelled eastward from Rochester with a pai of the name of "Frenchy," staying some time in New York city and ultimately shipping for Europe from Newport News, Va. He remained abroad several weeks, and a few days ago arrived in New York and came on to this city, where he lived at one time. Here he went to an old friend, R. W. Woodhull, and suggested to the latter that he might earn the $500 reward offered for him to police headquarters. Mr. Woodhull did not care to figure in the case and McCabe was forced to surrender himself to a policeman.

The prisoner's return to the vicinity of the Hickey murder was the result of his inability to sleep nights while the suspicion of murder rested on him. He tells a probable story in support of his claim of innocence, but there are several flaws which he may find it difficult to explain. McCabe was taken to Rochester to-day. last night. He disclaims any complicity

HARRISON STATION ABANDONED. Pennsylvania Road Says Temporarily. Residents Fear Otherwise.

The Pennsylvania Railroad abandoned the station at Harrison, N. J. yesterday Harrison is across the Passaic from Newark and is a city with nearly 10,000 inhabitants. The station is at the junction of the main line and the Centre street branch of the railroad, close to the big works of the Crucible Steel Company, the Edison lamp factory and other big factories. It is said by officials of the road that the station is merely cut out temporarily to accommodate the contractors making changes necessary the contractors making changes necessary to the elevation of tracks in Newark and the bridge over the river, but there are numbers of persons who say that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is punishing Harrison for making trouble about details of the elevation scheme. These same persons say that closing the station is unreasonable in view of the fact that the railroad company has given continued service at much less important stations while elevating tracks.

There will be a mass meeting at Harrison some night early this week for the purpose of giving citizens a chance to vent their indignation against the city officials who permitted the company to close the station, as well as to score the railroad company.

Harrison has many outlets. There is trolley service to Newark and Jersey (ity and the Lackawanna and Erie roads each have stations there.
